

Writing Crime

Tutor: Danuta Reah

Workshop Outline

Writing a novel takes talent, tenacity and technique. This course looks at some of the techniques used by successful writers to transform an original idea into a gripping story including how to structure a scene, how to vary the pace of a narrative and how to write convincing dialogue. This workshop is for people who have already embarked on their novel, but also for those who are looking for ways of getting started. The session will include some work on practical criticism and feedback so bring short pieces of your own writing to work on during the session.
