

Writing Short Stories

Ebba Brooks

According to writer Neil Gaiman “Short stories are tiny windows into other worlds and other minds and other dreams”. In this hands-on course we will explore some of the ways that great writers convey a universe of experience in a limited number of words – and apply these lessons to our own writing. We will read and discuss some highly regarded short stories to discover and emulate the techniques their writers use. Each week will include guided writing exercises to stimulate your own creative writing. There will also be opportunities to share your work in development and to listen to and feedback on other students’ work.

Start date: Tuesday 10 June and running every Tuesday for six weeks

End date: Tuesday 15 July

Time: 11.00am – 1.00pm
